

The making of our candles

Non-toxic pigments, fully refined wax, and additives of supreme quality are used which distinguish this product from mass produced wares. Fair trade principles are applied to create a working environment of positivism and participation by employees. Each candle is hand-poured in the workshop.

The character of the South African country has been the source of the multitude of designs that appeal to so many consumers worldwide. The richness of colour, vivaciousness, variety and wide spectrum of abundance in the African landscape influences the designs.

Well trained and skilled crafters hand-paint the designs, in hot wax, onto the candles and individually create each item as a masterpiece of innovation and creativity. The warm spirit of Africa is reflected in the authentic and original pieces of craftsmanship.
